Skiing has always been a favorite sport for Joanne, and she especially loves being out on the slopes with her family. "As a healthy, happy mom who took good care of herself and ate well, I never thought I would be a candidate for cancer. I strived to keep up with all of my athletics throughout treatment and I think it made all of the difference in the world," says Joanne.

"I am also humbled by those who have had a harder course of treatment. "To a newly diagnosed woman, I suggest she find someone with an almost identical situation to her own - who is a similar age and has a similar personal life -- who has already been through it and is doing great. It will make all the difference!"
